

Lack of Team Work Chief Concern of Princeton Coaches—Six Choices Lose at Jamaica

Tigers' Eleven Is Given Long Drill by Roper

Coaches Seek to Get Better Team Play Before Lafayette Game Saturday

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 6.—The Tiger varsity enjoyed a light workout this afternoon, with the exception of the men who did not get into the Trinity game on Saturday. In spite of the heat, the second string was put through a short period of scrimmage. Roper gave his varsity men a fundamental drill in blocking, straight tackling and in following the ball down the field on punts. After a long session on these rudiments of the game the first and second teams were lined up for "dummy" practice, and the men walked through the plays. Roper and his assistants pointed out the mistakes that were prominently displayed in the execution of several plays on Saturday and showed the necessary corrections.

The chief task of the coaches now lies in bringing about team work between the players. On Saturday the eleven did not at any time play as a unit, each man disregarding the rest of the team. Interference was conspicuously lacking, and the ground gaining was done for the most part by good, open field running.

Special emphasis will be laid on interference and the opening of holes by the linemen in preparation for the game with Lafayette this Saturday. The backs again practiced forward passing this afternoon. The overhead attack proved the most consistent part of the Orange and Black offense Saturday.

The team lined up for "dummy" practice in the same order that started the schedule on Saturday, with the exception of Rothschild, who was replaced by Dickenson. The latter, a rangy lineman who tips the beam at more than 200 pounds, has just become eligible, and was put into the line-up to accustom himself to the signals.

Teff, Herring, one of Princeton's greatest athletes of a dozen years ago, all-American tackle and the only American who ever made his Rugby blue at Oxford, addressed the candidates after practice.

Yale Cheats Rain By Stiff Workout In Artillery Hall

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 6.—Yale's football this afternoon reverted to the military, when the battling changed from the playing surface in the bowl to Artillery Hall. A heavy rain and muddy gridiron in the bowl caused the shift.

The transfer of headquarters prevented the squad from taking any kicking practice today. Dr. Shapiro, through nearly two hours of signal rehearsal, which included several passes and protracted breaking through practice.

Captain Callahan returned to the line-up for part of the signal drill. John Astor, replacing him in the line, took the cross, leaving the net for Eddie Walker, John Braden, and a cousin of Yale's former famous guard, was promoted to the first eleven, and Dickson was used at left tackle, and not report. Jack French of the freshman eleven of two seasons ago being assigned to fullback for the first eleven.

On the second string, Eddie Walker, John Braden, and a cousin of Yale's former famous guard, was promoted to the first eleven, and Dickson was used at left tackle, and not report. Jack French of the freshman eleven of two seasons ago being assigned to fullback for the first eleven.

Miss Hardin Leads Field Over Essex Club Links

Playing over the west course, Miss F. A. Hardin, of Baltimore, led the one-day tournament of the Women's Country Club yesterday. Her card read 102-4-56, and was low for both gross and net. She took the gross, leaving the net for Mrs. Courtney Smith, with 103-10-93. Mrs. Sidney Wolf, of Fairview, finished third, with 104-7-97. Miss Violet Miller, of Baltimore, had 105-10-95, and Miss Julia Bredt, of Essex County, returned 107-9-98.

Miss Hardin is a promising player. She qualified in the national championship tournament at Princeton last week, but was put out in the first round by Miss Mildred Caverly, of Philadelphia. At Essex County yesterday Mrs. C. W. Smith won the prize offered for the putting contest, with 25. The women will play at the Engineers' Country Club today.

Stable Boys Still on Strike At Racetracks Near Paris

PARIS, Oct. 6.—Efforts to reach a settlement of the strike of stable boys at racetracks near here have met with an obstacle, after the terms were arranged. Four trainers refused to recognize the strike, and the four-hour truce has been agreed to so that the public might not be disappointed.

At yesterday's race meeting at Longchamp, Paris, the strike was in effect, and the race was delayed. The trainers, however, who had been affected by the strike, did not have any horses placed in the race.

Motorcycle Racer Has Narrow Escape In Speedway Crash

Perry Coleman, the undefeated Australian champion, who is also the world's record holder for the mile, had a miraculous escape from death while practicing yesterday morning for the national championship motorcycle race meet, which is to be held at the Sheepshead Bay Speedway Saturday afternoon.

Coleman was caught in a "jam," and, losing control of his machine, shot up the track to the guard rail and then was sent hurtling back to the lower edge of the track. Aside from a few minor bruises, he was unhurt. He received medical attention and was ready to return to the track, but the rain that followed halted the workout.

On the course at the time of the mishap were Lieutenant Arthur Chapman, the world's speed king, who defended his title Saturday; Otto Walker, the 100-mile record holder; Ralph Burnham, the 200-mile champion; Mike Costello, the Italian champion; Gene Walker, the new national champion; and five and twenty-five miles "Red" Parkhurst, the international champion, and Roy Arley, the Pacific Coast champion.

Middle States Title Run Changed to Nov. 15

EASTON, Penn., Oct. 6.—Harold A. Bruce, head of the physical training department at Lafayette College, and track coach, announced this evening that the date of the annual "cross-country" race, which is held by the Middle States Inter-Collegiate Association, would be held here over the Lafayette course on November 15, instead of November 8, as first announced.

The Junior National A. A. U. championship run in New York is slated for November 8, and as Lafayette has entered a team in this race, a change in the Middle States inter-collegiate run date was necessary. Lafayette's first squad today ran nine miles over the nearby roads.

Lafayette Getting Ready For Clash With Tigers

EASTON, Penn., Oct. 6.—The Lafayette College football squad was given its first blackboard drill of the season this afternoon by coaches "Doc" Sutherland and E. R. Seidel. The faults which cropped up in the opening game with Muhlenberg were corrected, while a few new plays and formations were given the men in preparation for the game with Princeton Saturday at Princeton.

Army Coaches Shift Men After Holy Cross Tussle

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 6.—With one of the two big games scheduled for next Saturday, the Army has resumed its drill today. Synapse will be the Cadets' next opponent here. The workout at this afternoon was strenuous, and while the scrimmage was brief and not too rough, the drill was lengthy and several new plays were run off in the signal practice.

McQuarrie's good work against Holy Cross Saturday was pleasing, but the backs did some fumbling, which will have to be corrected. Lyttard was stopped frequently by Holy Cross and today gave way to Brownman at half back. Timberlake was in for Black at end, the latter being out for bruises received in Saturday's encounter. White ran the varsity at quarter. Jones was also given a short trial running the big team. Preidler and Vogel practiced good kicking.

Coombs Leaves Manual Melville Coombs, the Manual Training

Melville Coombs, the Manual Training center, has transferred to Swarthmore Prep. The loss greatly handicaps the big team. Preidler and Vogel practiced good kicking.

Why is it upon the snappy field of competition that an individual or an entire team will look like a champion one day and two or three days later will resemble a Scandinavian stew?

At stated times, of course, there are set physical or mental reasons for these wide shifts in form. But on a great many occasions there are no reasons in sight that one can determine. All the contender knows is that one day he can—and the next time he can't.

Not To Be Foretold

You will observe star tennis players and golfers who on Monday will look unbeatable, and who on Wednesday, with no alibi to offer in the way of bad health, will be entirely off? Why? They can never tell. The same may apply in baseball. We put the query up to Christy Mathewson, and he had no explanation to give. "It may be that on Monday," he said, "I might have pitched a 3 or 4 hit game in the old days. On Thursday or Friday I would start again against probably a weaker hitting club. I would be as confident of winning on Thursday as I was on Monday; I might physically feel even better. But on the latter date nothing would go right. I would have no jump to my fast ball; not much of a break to my curve and my control would be erratic. I would be trying as hard or harder than ever, but that wouldn't help. There is no answer to this shift in form that any one can find. It merely happens that way."

For a Group as Well

The queer part is that such a wide reversal can also assail an entire team—baseball or football. We have seen football teams on one Saturday play brilliantly. On the next Saturday in every way as good physical condition they might look to be a different club, sluggish, out of gear and all the rest of it. Not because their opponents were stronger, not because they were stale or physically unfit, but for some mysterious reason that again is not to be explained. A backfield man one day can handle long twisting spirals with his teeth. Two days later he may be miffing every punt that comes his way, and to save his immortal soul he can give no reason for the change in form.

In Golf

There are days in golf when, after a stroke or two, you feel that you could beat any man in your class. There are other days when, after a hole or two, you know you couldn't beat a one-armed drunk playing with a broom, and you may feel better physically the second day than you did the first. These unexpected shifts are among the main causes that produce startling upsets, especially in a one-day or in a brief competition. They are the most virile enemies of the overvalued dope, for they are not to be foretold. It all gets back to the slogan of the field: "One day you can and the next day you can't."

Maxims of Folly

Individuals and teams have won in spite of having the dope all their way. The time to collect is when you are ahead. The only system that can beat the races is to let 'em run for Sweeney. There are too many folks who attempt to play with blue chips before they can handle the reds and whites. The same man isn't right all the time, but at least he is reasonable. In taking a chance it is also well enough to select a soft spot to land on. Before playing any rival for a sucker, take another look in the glass.

St. Peter's Hold Stevens Prep to Scoreless Draw

Although fifteen pounds lighter per man, St. Peter's yesterday showed great fighting spirit, and held Stevens to a scoreless tie, on their home lot, Hudson County Park, Jersey City.

Neither team came within scoring distance of the goal, except when Stevens made a forward pass for 20 yards, but only to lose the ball on a fumble. Fumbling was an outstanding defect, on account of the wet grass.

Heavy Rain Stops Trots Lexington, Ky., Oct. 6

The Grand Circuit trots were called off here today because of heavy rain. Sunday and last night. It has not been decided whether the two days' programme will be "consolidated" or the closing date extended.

Charlie White's Son May Referee Big Bout

Louis White, son of the late Charlie White, one of America's foremost referees, has been suggested to officiate in the bouts at the all-star boxing show of the Newark Sportsman Club next Monday night. White is a regularly licensed referee under the laws of the State of New Jersey, and his name was received with satisfaction by all the boxers who are to take part in the show.

Manager Mackay announced yesterday that the first star bout would be between Al Roberts and Charlie Weiner, and would be put on promptly at 8.30 o'clock. This will be followed by Benny Valger and Frankie Brown, at 9 o'clock. Willie Jackson and Tommy Tourney, at 9.30, and the final bout, between Pete Herman, bantamweight champion, and Harold Farrex at 10 o'clock.

Harvard Players Out With Injuries From Boston Game

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 6.—There was only light work for the Harvard football squad today, the men having been used hard in the Boston College game last Saturday. Captain Billy Murray wrenched his leg again and it now looks as if he would be unable to play hard football again before the Brown game two weeks hence. Philip, Harvard's center, twisted his neck and will be on the side lines for a few days.

The play of Desmond, Kane and Brown on the rush line in the Boston College game was very pleasing to the coaches, but this week was marred by the heavy tackling Woods and Hadley will get into going. Felton will be the quarterback, while Murray is out of the practice. Hamilton, who played brilliantly at last Saturday's game, again with the same old leg injury, and Gratwick, Nelson and Humphrey all worked on the backfield with Casey and Horvath today.

The signal drill was held in the baseball cage owing to the wet field, the only shift on the rush line being the placing of Crandall, a former Brown end, on the right wing. Desmond running through plays with team "B." Rugged football will be started again tomorrow.

Ultima Thule Takes Feature From Pickwick

Shoot On, With Bad Leg, Wins Balmoral Handicap; Dickie Falls With Tryon

By W. J. Macbeth

Racing form, it would appear, has been added to life's great mysteries. It seems to have become a lost art, no less, judging by the consistency of surprise in our fall racing around the metropolitan tracks. Everything went topsy-turvy at Jamaica yesterday. Not a favorite got the brackets and most of the trials of speed were processions rather than competitions. Because of the uncertain track conditions, the fields were scratched down to a minimum. The opening and closing events were the only two that attracted average representation at the meet.

On the whole the winners romped home just about as they expected, even if said romping was unexpected on the part of the fans. No man striking illustration was furnished than in the feature event, the Balmoral Handicap for three-year-olds and upward at six furlongs, with $1,500 added. W. R. Cummings, the favorite, was scratched. This event which brought only three competitors, the lightest field of the day, was nothing more than an exercise grinder for the boys. The favorite, Ultima Thule, was scratched. The field was made up of four-year-olds, well ridden by Kummer, simply toyed with W. C. Clancy's Pickwick, which was scratched. The favorite at the prohibitive odds of 9 to 20.

Favorite Is Outrun Ultima Thule, which showed an early turn of speed in his last race before he was slammed into the fence, throwing Jockey Apol into the infield, had the foot on Pickwick in the run to the turn. As he hit the bend Ultima Thule was fully two lengths in front of the other and this lead he increased at will on the turn.

Kummer picked his way into the stretch where the footing was best and finished the run with his mount well in hand. It was not until after the first turn that Ultima Thule was seen, and he was so sore when pulled up that he could hardly limp off the track. The winner was a bad leg and that it should have been about even money he would break down in the race. The colt opened favorite at 9 to 1, but he was scratched.

Perhaps the most sensational upset of the day, however, developed in the third event, the Balmoral Handicap for two-year-olds at six furlongs. J. E. Nash's Ballybuck, which was scratched, was the favorite at 9 to 1. He was so sore when pulled up that he could hardly limp off the track. The winner was a bad leg and that it should have been about even money he would break down in the race. The colt opened favorite at 9 to 1, but he was scratched.

Ballybuck Slow at Start This one, however, was so slow at the start he could not make up his disadvantage. He showed a brilliant burst of speed toward the end. Ballybuck finished third to Foreclosure, which ran a free race. But Shoot On had the early speed and led from start to finish even though he showed a disposition to run out with Fairbrother from the stretch turn home once his game legs began to burn him.

Richard Galt's Alibi, who won the last race for Jockey T. Rowan, and started third race, at a mile and a sixteenth, in a common career. Albert A. Bridge won the race, and was scratched. The favorite, made up of a lot of ground.

"Pro" Football For New York Is Abandoned

THERE will be no Sunday football games played at the Polo Grounds. This announcement was made yesterday by Charlie Brickley, who was managing and coaching the New York Giants professional football team. Brickley learned yesterday that there was no law which permits the playing of football on Sunday in this state. The baseball bill covers only baseball games.

The project to play professional football games on Sunday here, therefore, had to be abandoned. Many of the players Brickley had signed up, on learning of the abandonment, immediately opened negotiations with promoters of teams in Western cities.

after a slow start and beat Back Home out of show money when the latter faltered in the final sixteenth.

D. S. P. Randolph's old mare, Favour, simply spread-eagled the field in the fifth race at a mile and a sixteenth. Keen Jane, an outsider, was second, while Kilkenny, the favorite, had to be content with third money. A. L. Astor's Pickwick, a 100 to 1 shot in the first race, was seriously hurt when he fell at the far turn, as the result of being caught in a jam. Tryon was hurried off in an ambulance. It was believed after a hurried examination that he might have been injured internally.

Pitching Analysis Shows Excellent Work of Eller

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—"Hod" Eller's sensational pitching to-day stood out clearly in the analysis of the forty-six strikes which he pitched thirty-six came in the first five innings and half of that number were recorded in the second and third, when he struck out six successive batters. In the third inning Leibold was the only Sox player to touch the ball. It was a high foul into the upper tier of the grandstand for a strike.

In the sixth Eller threw only five times. One of these efforts was a ball, another was a foul, and a fly and two easy grounders disposed of the three batters. The big Red twirler missed the plate eighteen times in the first three innings, but in the last six had only seven bad ones called. Williams also made a creditable record. He had forty-three strikes in eight innings and only twenty-eight balls in prominent, which was far ahead of his exhibition at Cincinnati in the second game of the series.

Mayer, who pitched the ninth inning for Chicago, exhibited a lack of control, striking out twice and missing one plate twelve times out of twenty-one attempts. All told, the Chicago pitchers threw 125 times. Eller got through with nine and two outs.
